Dear guests and colleagues,

The time is past, when merely surgical instruments and suture materials played a dominant role in plastic surgery. New technological possibilities, advances in molecular biology, genetics and nanotechnology open new horizons in medicine, as well as in plastic surgery.

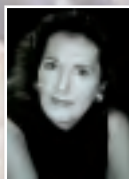

In recent years plastic surgery has undergone great changes in technologies, devices and procedures. I hope that our meeting will be successful in defining the view of the main scientific topics in question, and in creating the consensus of the discussed problems for the next period. I know that each specialist can enrich plastic surgery with his own experience and new knowledge, and every meeting of specialists is an occasion to exchange views and experience. The meetings can not be substituted by scientific journals. Published papers are presentations without an immediate possibility to express one's attitude and to exchange opinions between the author and the recipients. In addition, there is new knowledge presented at congresses that is not yet generally accepted.

Our meeting will be an opportunity for participants to assume an attitude towards debated topics in an easy and friendly atmosphere. I do hope that our town Bratislava will offer comfort and ideal conditions to all participants of the congress. Bratislava is situated on the both banks of the Danube, the largest Central European river and played an important role in the European history as a large intersection of roads from the south to the north and from the west to the east. In the distant past the area of Bratislava was a part of the Roman Empire.

I look forward to welcoming you in Bratislava.

SCIENTIFIC TOPICS FOR THE 9th IQUAM CONSENSUS CONFERENCE

1. Breast augmentation, reconstruction and the status of breast implants register in the country
2. Current status of other techniques for breast reconstruction and augmentation – tissue transfer, fat grafting, other injectables for breast augmentation
3. Suspension materials
4. Stem cell therapy
5. Tissue engineering
6. Wound healing
7. Shock wave therapy
8. Injectables (lipolysis)
9. Botulinum toxin A
10. Injectable fillers
11. Microcirculation, high resolution ultrasound, science in antiaging medicine
12. Exchange ideas that will foster innovation in plastic surgery
13. Innovation in suture materials
14. Standard for aesthetic surgery services

Cooperation on consensus declaration after IQUAM meeting

Yiacoumettis, Andreas, Greece
- 10:15 – 11:30 IQUAM Delegates Present The Current Status Of Regulations In Their Nations

11:30 – 12:00 Coffee Break

Tissue Transplantation

- 12:00 – 12:15 Immunological aspects
Piccolo, Paulo, Brasil/US
- 12:15 – 12:30 Research in organ transplantation
Lamby, Phillip, Germany
- 12:30 – 12:45 Clinical application: face and hand transplant
Lantieri, Laurent, France

Fat Grafts In Breast Surgery

- 12:45 – 13:00 Basic Science II
Coleman, Sidney, US
- 13:00 – 13:15 Use of vacum assisted PRA with fat graft in Breast Surgery
Eisenmann-Klein, Marita, Germany
- 13:15 – 13:30 Experience with fat graft injection in breast for reconstruction and aesthetic augmentation
Toussoun, Gilles, France

13:30 – 14:30 Lunch

Tissue Engineering

- 14:30 – 14:45 Tissue engineering, various aspects
Cao, Yilin, China (to be confirmed)
- 14:45 – 15:00 Stem cell research and its clinical relevance
Prantl, Lukas, Germany
- 15:00 – 15:15 Culturing of fat tissue
Markowicz, Marta, Germany

Wound Healing, Microcirculation, Scars

- 15:15 – 15:30 Microcirculation
Prantl, Lukas, Germany
- 15:30 – 15:45 Flow measurement with High Resolution Ultrasound
Lamby Phillip, Germany
- 15:45 – 16:00 Flow Measurement, clinical study
Lorenz, Sarah, Germany
- 16:00 – 16:15 Wound Management in Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery by Topical Negative Pressure
Koller, Jan, Slovakia

- 16:15 – 16:30 Alloderm
Vogt, Peter, Germany
- 16:30 – 16:45 JUVISTA: a potential new pharmaceutical for the prevention and reduction of scarring - clinical trial and scientific results

SLOVAKIA

Slovakia, landlocked republic in Central Europe, bounded on the northwest by the Czech Republic, on the north by Poland, on the east by Ukraine, on the south by Hungary, and on the southwest by Austria. Bratislava is its capital and largest city.

Slovakia was considered part of Greater Hungary until 1918, when it united with the Czech lands of Bohemia and Moravia, in addition to a small part of Silesia, to form Czechoslovakia. In 1939, shortly before the start of World War II, Slovakia declared its independence under pressure from Germany, but in 1945 it was reunited with the rest of Czechoslovakia. From 1948 until 1989 Czechoslovakia was ruled by a Soviet-style Communist regime. In 1993 the country broke apart, and Slovakia and the Czech Republic became independent.

Slovakia is known for its numerous and impressive mountain ranges. Many of the country's mountains give way to rolling hills and river valleys, where agriculture, winemaking, and livestock raising are practiced. Slovakia's mountainous terrain has also influenced settlement patterns within the country.

The Carpathian Mountains, a major mountain system of central Europe, extend across much of northern and northwestern Slovakia and encompass the Little Carpathians, the White Carpathians, and the Tatra, which is the highest Carpathian range. The High Tatra mountains contain the country's highest peak, Gerlachovsk štít, which rises to an elevation of 2655 m (8711 ft). The High Tatra also contain one of Slovakia's largest national parks and are a popular place for skiing and hiking.

Southwestern Slovakia is dominated by the Danubian Lowlands, a fertile region that extends to the Danube River on the Hungarian border. Much of the country's agriculture is produced in this area; Bratislava is its main industrial center.

Slovakia also contains a number of interesting and unusual caves. Among them are the Demninsk caves, a series of caves linked by underground lakes and waterfalls, located in central Slovakia; and the Domica cave, known for its vaulted roof and colored stalactites, located near the Hungarian border in eastern Slovakia.

Slovakia is a member of the United Nations (UN), the Council of Europe (CE), Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) and the Central European Initiative (CEI), a group promoting regional political and economic cooperation. Slovak Republic is a full member of NATO and member of European Union. The currency in Slovakia is Euro.

BRATISLAVA

Not only is Bratislava the largest city in Slovakia but also serves as the state capital. Furthermore, Bratislava is the seat of the National Council of the Slovak Republic, the Government of the Slovak Republic, national ministries and the other central bodies of the state administration of the Slovak Republic. It is situated in the centre of Europe in the southwestern part of Slovakia.

It borders with Hungary in the south and with Austria in the west. The town spreads like a fan on both banks of the Danube River, and at the foot of the Low Carpatians. Historical points of interest include an 11th-century Gothic cathedral that was restored in the second half of the 19th century; a former royal palace of Hungary, on a hill overlooking the city; a 13th-century Franciscan church; the town hall, a 13th-century edifice; the Comenius University in Bratislava (1919); the Slovak Technical University in Bratislava (1938); and the Slovak Academy of Sciences (1953).

Founded before the 10th century, the city was known originally as Pressburg. Strong fortifications erected during the 12th century gave it strategic importance; from 1541 to 1784 it was the capital of Hungary.

In 1805, during the Napoleonic War, the Peace of Bratislava was signed in the Primate's Palace following the defeat of the armies of Francis I, the Austrian emperor and Alexander I, the Russian tsar by Napoleon's army at Austerlitz (Slavkov). When Czechoslovakia was created in 1919 after World War I, the city was renamed Bratislava and made capital of the province of Slovakia.

SOCIAL PROGRAM

OPENING CEREMONY

The Opening Ceremony will take place on 23rd September 2010, at Bratislava Town Hall at the impressive Mirror Hall and it will be accompanied by cocktail buffet and music.

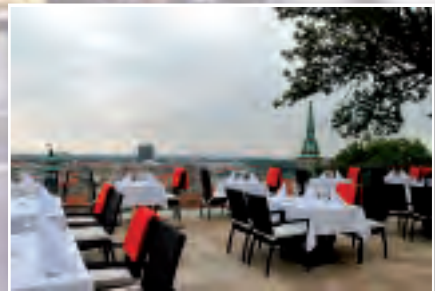

Originally the site of a towered house in the 14th century, the old town hall arose in the 15th century by connecting several burgher houses, and then went through several reconstructions in the course of the centuries. After the earthquake of 1599, it was reconstructed in Renaissance style, while the town-hall tower was rebuilt in baroque style in the 18th century. In 1912 the rear wing was constructed in neo-renaissance style from the side of the courtyard, and neo-gothic style from the side of the Primacial square.

The town-hall tower was of defensive nature. At the bottom, you can find a table with the date of February 1850, marking the high water level when the Danube flooded. Left of the Gothic window, there is immured a cannon ball commemorating the attacks of Napolenonic troops in 1809. At the corner of the tower, the statue of Madonna of 1676 is located. Decisions of the assembly, royal decrees and orders of the town council were announced from the balcony of the tower in the past. Note a fresco of an old man of 1533 as well as a statuette of the Hungarian King - St. Ladislaus.
